Chapter 1:

Speak, Lord

Faith First Supplement September 21/22, 2010

Major Points: How do we learn who God is? We learn about God by praying to God, reading the stories about God in the Bible, by learning about the Saints who followed God. Through the ordinary events of daily life, God reveals to us who He is. God speaks to us through creation, people we meet, through good times and difficult times. God is forever inviting us to believe, trust and love God.

Listen to God

Many people want you to choose good for yourself and for others. At these times, God speaks to you. Read each situation below, then complete the statements.

1. Your mother calls you to come inside and study for tomorrow's math test. But you want to stay outside with your friends. What do you do as God calls you to do good for yourself and others?

In this situation, I think this is what God is saying to me: _____.

In this situation, I would _____.

I'd do this because _____.

2. You want to visit the mall with your friends. But your mother has asked you to spend the day baby-sitting your younger brother. What do you do as God calls you to do good for yourself and others?

In this situation, I think this is what God is saying to me: _____.

In this situation, I would _____.

I'd do this because _____.

3. The television newscaster talks about homelessness in your city and the lack of affordable housing. How can you discover the good that God might be suggesting to you?

In this situation, I think this is what God is saying to me: _____.

In this situation, I would _____.

I'd do this because _____.
